fallen in with by the other vessel. She had performed a succession of gales and heavy weather and when sighted by the Aphrodite the crew had been five days without intermission working the pumps, the captain having to steer the ship for the three previous days and nights without any assistance. When they were taken on board they were in a sad state of exhaustion, and almost covered with boils. When the crew of the Blanch she had about 900 of water in hold. They were taken into Philadelphia by Aphrodite.
